Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 22 Jul 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Another hot and sunny day. Rain later Friday.

Today:
Fine, sunny conditions continue, with clear skies for most. Fair-weather cloud bubbling up during the afternoon with a risk of some isolated thundery showers. Remaining hot, especially in the east. Maximum temperature 31 deg C (88 deg F).

Tonight:
Any lingering showers quick to die out as the skies clear for a fine evening. Remaining very warm overnight, likely a tropical night for many western parts. Minimum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Friday:
Another largely dry and hot day with sunny spells and isolated showers, thundery in the far west. Turning cloudier later as heavy, thundery rain approaches, reaching the south overnight. Maximum temperature 28 deg C (82 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Temperatures dropping to around average during this period. Blustery, heavy, slow-moving and possibly thundery showers on Saturday and Sunday with some sunny intervals. Humid and breezy. Lighter showers Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.